DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hagting (WO 97/15160) in view of Ward (USP 5974320).

Regarding claims 1, 4 and 6-8, Hagting discloses (Figs 1-7 and Pages 1-20) the DECT systems (Fig 4) comprising a plurality of base stations (Fig 4, Ref 11 and 12) wherein at least one second base station is asynchronous to the first base stations which are synchronous with the mobiles parts; the at least one second base stations being in a proximity of the first base stations; first and second base stations and first base stations being connective by the wireless transmission messages (Fig 4, Ref 14-16 and Page 13, lines 23-27, the first base stations of first system are not synchronous with the second base stations of the second system so they are partially asynchronous with each other; during the handover the mobile receives the messages from both systems, See Fig 4b and Page 5, lines 13 to page 7, lines 25). However, Hagting fails to disclose the first base stations transmit the first messages that indicate the first base stations are surrounded by at least one of the second base stations. In the same field of endeavor, Ward discloses the first base stations regularly or automatically transmit the first messages having first information indicating that the first base stations are surrounded by at least one of the second base stations network side (Col 3, lines 5-24 and col. 8, lines 28-50).

Art Unit: 2665

Since, Hagting suggests that a list of the synchronous and asynchronous base stations can be provided. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to apply a step of broadcasting a message which indicates the first base stations being surrounded by at least one of the second base stations as disclosed by Ward's system and method into Hagting's method and system. The motivation would have been to improve the battery life of the mobile unit.

Regarding claims 2-3, Hagting discloses a synchronism between the first base stations and the first mobile parts exists in idle or active locked mode the first mobile parts (Page 4, lines 8-14; Page 6, lines 20-25 and Page 15, lines 5-12)

Regarding claim 5, Hagting implicitly discloses the first base stations are respectively asynchronous relative to the second base station in view of at least one of bit, time slot and time frame synchronism.

Regarding claim 10, Hagting implicitly discloses the first mobile parts are respectively asynchronous relative to the first base station in view of at least one of bit, time slot and time frame synchronism.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 9 and 11-19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 7/10/2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, Hagting discloses a method and system for handoff between the first and second base station when roaming between synchronous and asynchronous and Ward discloses a method and system for receiving the first messages having first information indicating that the first base stations are surrounded by at least one of the second base stations network side. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to apply a step of broadcasting a message which indicates the first base stations being surrounded by at least one of the second base stations as disclosed by Ward's system and method into Hagting's method and system. The motivation would have been to improve the battery life of the mobile unit for only receiving a message that includes the surround base stations.

Applicant's arguments fail to comply with 37 CFR 1.111(b) because they amount to a general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references.

In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Art Unit: 2665
